

Corporation Blues

Working for the corporation

Trying to earn a good day's pay

Working long and hard for what?

Man, it ain't the way

Are you just another suit

Playing the corporate game

Where everything around you

Looks and sounds the same

Fast-tracker, when will you know?

Fast-tracker, how far will you go?

Fast-tracker, will you leave it behind?

Oohh-oohh, to walk the company line

Do you have a conscience

Or will you soon forget

The morals and the values

That were long ago set

If you leave them behind

I guess you'll never know

The person you could have been

And the one that you let go, yeah

Fast-tracker, when will you know?

Fast-tracker, how far will you go?

Fast-tracker, will you leave it behind?
Oohh-oohh, to walk the company line

Working for the corporation
Now sadly you have become
Just another empty suit
Void of individuality and fun

Fast-tracker, now that you know
Fast-tracker, how far you must go
Can you say in the end
You would do it again
And leave your soul behind, oohh-oohh
To make the corporate climb
What a waste of time
To just fall in line
What a waste of a mind
To parrot the company line, yeah
The company line, company line, company line

Composition By: FRANK ANTONICELLI

©2019 Be Still Publishing LLC

For non-commercial use only